FAQs

What time do classes begin and end?

Typically, classes are held from 8:30 am to 4:30 pm with an hour lunch break and short breaks in the mid-morning and mid-afternoon. Trainers are available during breaks and after class to answer questions and to help individual students. Please note the starting time of your class as start times may vary and plan on arriving a few minutes early so that you can set up your workstation and be ready for a prompt start to class.

Some classes are scheduled for early dismissal on Fridays so that students can catch flights home. If you are flying out of Logan International Airport, you should plan to fly no earlier than 5:30 pm, and should plan to leave the office two hours before your flight to allow for possible traffic. Please inform your instructor at the beginning of the week if you will need to leave early on Friday for a flight.

What is the dress code in your building?

Business casual (including jeans) is encouraged. We want each guest to dress comfortably while they are here.

What materials and technology are provided?

Students should bring their own laptop, power cord, and mouse to class. Duck Creek University provides each student with a virtual development environment for all hands-on classes, and all materials needed for the course are stored in the virtual environment. A guest network provides internet access for visitors.

What are the after-class entertainment options in the area?

There are no shortage of restaurants and entertainment options in the Seaport District. Visit Yelp or Open Table for recommendations, directions and reservations.
